Collected poems 1945-1990 contains the lifework of one of America's irreplaceable poets." Forty years ago in The New Yorker Louise Bogan wrote: "Barbara Howes is the most accomplished women poet of the younger writing generation-one who has found her own voice, chosen her own material, and worked out her own form.

An example is "The Hero," from Collected Poems, also published in 1982 and covering the span of years from 1945 to 1975. "The Hero" is written in variable isoverbal ("word-count") prosody; the number of words per line varies from three to seven, but the norm is four to six. Another technique to be found in this piece is variable rhyme-there is no set rhyme scheme, but some of the lines rhyme and the poem concludes with a rhymed couplet.
